Bio

Marius Watz (NO) is an artist and designer working with computer code as a creative material to produce bold geometric abstractions based on algorithms. He works in a range of media, from realtime video for large screens to 3D printing and light installations. His work has been exhibited at venues like the Victoria & Albert Museum, Todaysart in The Hague and Museumsquartier Wien. Watz is a lecturer in interaction design at the Oslo School of Architecture and Design.
